

Tribe Net V3

Research List

Introduction

This is a provisional list of topics that will be considered and reviewed on a case-by-case basis. In effect this means that I will respond to player requests (though should this result in a flood of requests the response time will be slow). Some of the listed topics might be modified depending on what happens with programming, play and general administration.

Should the running of a topic become too labour intensive I might have to adopt a cap (meaning that only a certain number of Tribes will be able to hold DL0 or better in the topic).

Where possible, players should supply the GM with the effects of their research (either in Orders - or in Combat Orders if these are more relevant). Most research processing is manual and over and above the standard processing - so the possibility of a rich range of research is contingent upon player co-operation re supplying figures, effects, equivalent numbers of workers etc. If this is not for you there are many topics that require little input from players, and you should look towards these instead.

In most cases where Research Prerequisites are required they have to be met within the same Tribe, and must be attained before the relevant research is commenced.

If a Tribe happens to complete all topics within a particular skill area there is no guarantee that more research will immediately be available in that area. In many cases though a default topic will be available, for example, Hunt11, Mining 11, Com13 etc.

New Research Topics – Player Driven

Players may submit one research topic per game year with the exception of a Tribe having all research topics within a given skill. If that is the case, then they may propose a new topic in that skill so no skill goes fallow.

Notes

Tribe Net is not restricted to a particular historical or cultural period (for example, from the outset you have Stone Axes alongside Iron Swords) though the aim is to reflect actual developments. The research is meant to represent vertical chronological developments in historical civilizations. However, if one were to look for an end point it would be found in the sort of technology that supports Siege Cannons, and Naval Siege Cannon. Combat related research will not progress into hand held gunpowder weapons, field Cannon, oil powered vehicles etc; ultimately the sword and shield will remain the focus of combat. While research nods in the direction of history it also adds to player interest and some items are constructed in the light of this. Thus any line drawn with respect to what is and what isn't appropriate development, what should be research and what should be standard, is going to be arbitrary to some extent and a fact of Tribe Net life.

There are currently 891 research topics in the database. Not all have been coded at this time. Some are legacy topics from the previous iteration. April 17th, 2018.

Description	Upon completion, the Clan may form an International Cultural Organization (ICO) in a village of at least 6k population (W/A/I). Each ICO village must have a name. The Maximum number of Clans that may join an ICO is limited by the Host Clan's Diplomacy skill. A Clan may only be Host Clan for a single ICO. A Clan may only gain bonuses

from 2 ICOs, but may be a member of more.

Benefits:

The ICO gives the Clan a single benefit, a 5% increase in Local Support benefits per other Clan that joins the ICO. This affects Population gained, Population hireable, Gold gained, etc.

To join the ICO, a Clan must meet the following conditions:

- 1) Have a Treaty (Pol Research) OR diplomatic relations via Corps Diplomatique (Dip Research) OR be in a Nation with the host Clan.
- 2) Build an Embassy at the ICO village site.

Clans that join the ICO gain the following benefits:

- 1) Local Support bonus of 2.5% per other Clan in the ICO.

Annual Cost:

- 1) Each member of the ICO must consume 1 Lot of each desired commodity per other clan in the ICO. Failure to consume this yearly removes participation in the ICO for the year. This is sent as a Transfer to usage (1263)

Annual Bonus - Non-Members

1) As part of the Cultural exchange the dues the ICO pay annually gets dispersed among non-members, all non-member Clans may gain 1 'Lot' of a single Desired Commodity annually. This bonus will be announced with the Month 12 Tribe News for players to transfer to their Clan on month 1.

Note: This only applies to Clans which have a Clan number higher than the Clan Number of the research holder. Example Clan 489 would give this benefit to non-members of Clans 490 or higher. Clans 488 and lower receive nothing (with the exception that if a player returns to the game and starts a new clan at an older clan number but not taking over a pre-existing clan). Each non-member Clan is responsible for using the auto-transfer section of their orders to transfer the desired commodity from Usage..

Embassy: Upon completing the embassy, the Clan must maintain a Unit at the Embassy hex consisting of at least Inactives 10, Actives 30, Warriors 30. They may not perform normal village activities. This unit is a Garrison that does not require the Garrison skill to support (Bonus garrison). While the Embassy maintains its manning, the Clan gains the benefits described above. Embassies may hold a maximum of 250 population. Embassies may have their own fortifications built (this will be noted on the player's report in the comment / info section).

Population in the Embassy may perform no other activities beyond Administering the Embassy (10 Inactives and 30 Actives required), Defending / Security of the Embassy (30 Warriors minimum). Additional population beyond these 70, to a maximum of 250, may be present but are limited in their activities. They may not perform any Group A skills but may participate in Spying, Security and other thematic roles for an Embassy.

	Additional Fortifications may be built by the Embassy. This will be kept as a Note on the Report. Defense: Should the ICO village come under attack, the Host Clan and any Clan's units in Embassies may form a Meeting of the Clan (full rules apply, including skill check losses for all Tribes involved) for defensive purposes only even without Corps Diplomatique relations to every other Clan. This Defensive MoTC may not attack (must declare Defend) and may not be used to break DEVA. This bonus only applies inside the ICO Host Clan's village.

Archaeology

Major Updated NOTE (Should/When this affects you, please let the GM know):

- 1) Player Artefact Sites no longer give an item with the name “Artefact”
- 2) When an Artefact site is created, the Clan Chief gives the Artefact Site a name “Mesopotamian” or “Blue Sky” or some other name that signifies what they’re calling the people the artefact site once belonged to.
- 3) When excavating, the item that the excavator receives is now called “Artefact <Name from #2>” and “Relic <Name from #2>”. For example, “Artefact Mesopotamian” or “Relic Blue Sky”.
- 4) NPC Relic sites that provide “Relics” now provide a Relic with a name unique to that site.
- 5) These now named Artefacts/Relics are all identical and meet the requirements for all topics/uses that require a standard Artefact / Relic.

A spreadsheet is available to make this easier. Requirements: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Restrictions: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Maximum Exchanges per Fair: You may make a number of Exchanges equal to your Clan's Fair multiplier. • Maximum Amount per Exchange: The maximum quantity of any single commodity gained is equal to the amount that the clan can pay for Hirelings at the fair in that commodity. • NPC Payout: The Local Group takes 10% of the exchange. This means the unit only receives 90% of the commodity for which the exchange is being made. • Unique: You may only make one exchange per Commodity in a single fair (you could not therefore gain Gold three times). Notes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Fair Slot: These trades do not use up a Fair slot. • Spreadsheet: There is a Local Money Changer spreadsheet available on the TribeNet website to make the conversion easier. • Example: Clan 999 has a Fair Multiplier of 3 due to having a Trading Post and a Home City. They have gained Local Money Changer research topic and it is Fair month. Clan 999 may make 3 transactions (due to the Fair multiplier of 3) during this fair in addition to their normal purchases/sales. It is currently year 815. For the first exchange, Clan 999 has a lot of Gold and desires Olives. Based on the year, the maximum number of Hirelings that may be gained in Fair with a multiplier of 3 is 510 hirelings. Every hireling costs 1 Olive (based upon a batch of 10 hirelings costing 10 Olives) so the maximum amount of Olives that may be exchanged for is 510. Clan 999 wants to spend Gold. It would require 51 Gold (1 Gold for 10 Hirelings) to gain 510 Hirelings thus the conversion ratio between Gold and Olives is 1 Gold : 10 Olives. Clan 999 sends 51 Gold to usage and gains Olives 510.

Pre-Req	Banking 10 (Skill) Home City in clan Minting/Coin (Banking research) Administrative buildings
Recipe	1 NPC Exchange: People 820, Eng5, 4000 Stones, 200 Iron (Normal Install rates)
Description	The NPC Exchange represents an economic link between a Home City and an NPC International City such as Beijing, Tokyo, Babylonia, etc.

Return to Table of Contents

Bonus:

- Per Fair: During Fair months, but independent from the Fair, Trade Guilds and any other interaction or transaction between the NPC International City and the Clan, the NPC Exchange allows for automated trade between the NPC International City and the Home City.
- NPC Exchange Conversion: When activated, the NPC Exchange allows the Home City to convert Coin into other Commodities using the appropriate exchange rate (See Below). Only Commodities associated with the NPC International City that the NPC Exchange building has been built in may be the target of this conversion (See Restrictions below). There is a maximum amount of each commodity that may be gained via an NPC Exchange building each Fair (See Restrictions below).
- The Currency: The only currency that can be used over the link is Coin. For purposes of the NPC Exchange, 1 Coin is considered 1 Olive.
- Exchange Rate: NPC Exchange uses the Desired Commodity table in the Mandate for converting between Coin and other Desired Commodities.

Requirements:

- NPC Exchange (Building): An NPC Exchange building must be built at location in the NPC International City. Without an NPC Exchange at the NPC International City, no NPC Exchanges may be made.
- Mint (Building): A Mint must be built at the Home City. Without a Mint at the Home City, no NPC Exchanges may be made. The Mint in this case acts as a representation of the Clan's commitment to administering a stable financial infrastructure and to gain the confidence of traders the world over. This is in addition to, but separate from, its role in making coins.
 - Only 1 Mint is required for NPC Exchange research topic regardless of the number of NPC Exchanges built in NPC International Cities.

Restrictions:

- Exchangeable Commodities: Only Commodities offered as a trade mission at NPC International Cities with NPC Exchange Buildings belonging to the Clan may be the target of the conversion.
- NPC Exchange Maximum Amount: An NPC Exchange building in an NPC International City to gain a maximum amount of the appropriate commodities equal to the amount of commodities that NPC International City offers.
 - Example: Beijung offers a trade mission from Beijung to Whulan in the amount of Tea 18,750 and Opium 375. Thus, the NPC Exchange built at Beijung allows up to Tea 18,750 and Opium 375 to be gained with Coin.
- NPC Exchange (Building) Limits: A Clan needs only have a single NPC Exchange building in an NPC International City. Any extra NPC Exchange Buildings the Clan builds in the same NPC International City provides no further bonus or abilities.

	Notes: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Example: Clan 001 Home City has a Mint. It builds an NPC Exchange building in Beijung. Beijung offers Trade Mission of Tea 18,750 and Opium 375. Clan 001 may use Coin to purchase up to 18,750 tea and 375 opium at the rate of 10 Coin per 1 Opium (thus a max of 3,750 coin for 375 Opium) and 10 Coin per 50 Tea (thus a max of 3,750 coin for 18,750 tea). • Multiple NPC Exchanges: Only a single research topic (NPC Exchange) is required and any number of NPC Exchanges may be built in different NPC International Cities. • NPC International Cities: An NPC International City may host any number of NPC Exchanges from different Clans.

Description	Engineering Activity A Tribe with this research gains the ability to create a wondrous engineering marvel called the Lighted Dome of Iron and Stone. The LDIS is a massive tower and building construct that raises hundreds of feet in the air. It is made of a structure of stone and iron with brick and iron facades and is gilded in silver and gold. At the top is a light created by a furnace that burns throughout the day and night, its light viewable for miles though not of an intensity to be used as a good lighthouse. The complex that surrounds the LDIS acts as a refuge for those who need solitude throughout the year, broken only by the annual celebration. These intellectuals who are harbored inside the LDIS are trained by the Tribe in the history and construction of the LDIS and slowly learn about its secrets. Upon Completion: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * Clan Morale Bonus: Once constructed, the LDIS provides each Tribe of the owning Clan that has a unit in the city a one time boost of +0.05 General Morale (maximum 1.50 morale). * Other Clans: Tribes from other Clans that have a Unit in the hex also benefit from the wondrous construction. At the cost of 100 Gold, the Tribe may send 100 actives to live and work in the complex (100 Actives are permanently removed). In return, they gain +1 Skill Level to one of the following skills (Maximum Level 8): Engineering, Brickmaking, Stonework, Metalwork, Art. * Local Support: The LDIS counts as 2 Hamlets that do not need Longhouse Support provided that the Clan already has control of 4 Hamlets. Annual Bonus: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> * Clan Morale Bonus: Additionally, each year that the LDIS is operating, on the anniversary of the founding of the City where the LDIS is built, each Tribe from the owning Clan that has a unit present in the City gains an additional 0.02 General Morale (maximum 2.00 morale). * Clan Knowledge Bonus: Each year that the LDIS is operating, on the anniversary of the founding of the City where the LDIS is built, each Tribe from the owning Clan that has a unit present in the City gains a +1 to one Skill (Maximum skill level 8) or a +1 to one Research topic Difficulty level (that is already at DL 0 or higher). Description	A Unit with the Resilience research completed is capable of holding out against the enemy under even the worst outcome of combat. These Units are exceptionally hard to rout, but it comes with consequences: Benefits: During the beginning of a battle, a Unit may declare that it is utilizing Resilience by including it on their Combat Entry Sheet. This can be done either by

	an attacking or defending unit. During all Combat this turn, the Unit gains the following: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) Temporary Military Morale Increase of 0.02 for purposes of combat this turn. 2) When determining if a Unit routes, the random die roll is made once normally. If it indicated a Rout, the dice are rerolled and checked against for each level of Resilience. If one of the die rolls comes up as a Does not Rout, the unit will not rout. The unit will only rout if all the results show a Rout. a. Example: A Unit has a 55% chance of not routing. It has Resilience I. A random number is generated between 1 and 100. The results are 89. Typically, the 89 would indicate a rout (It is greater than 55), however, the Unit declared Resilience I at the start of Combat. It rerolls the random number and gets a 47. Because the 47 is below the point of Routing, the unit will not Rout this combat. Restrictions and Penalties: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) A Tribe may only utilize Resilience in a Unit once in a calendar year (Month 1-12) regardless of the number of Tribe elements. 2) If a unit would have Routed but a reroll from Resilience saves them, the Tribe loses 0.02 General Morale per level of Resilience research. 3) War Fatigue: Additionally, if the Unit would have Routed but a reroll from Resilience saves them, the Tribe may not initiate combat and may only declare defense in combat orders for that calendar year. 4) War Fatigue: Regardless of if Resilience was used, as long as Resilience was declared, the Tribe that the Unit belongs to must sacrifice 1 ‘Lot’ of a desired Commodity on the next turn or suffer an additional 0.02 General Morale loss per level of Resilience.

Diplomacy

Name	Alliance MOTC
DL	4
Pre-Req	N/A
Recipe	N/A
Leads To:	Trusted Maps (Captaincy research) Trusted Maps (Economics research) Trusted Maps (Leadership research) Federal Community of Clans (Leadership research)
Description	Once completed, this research topic allows MOTC to be declared between Tribes within Allied Clans (Alliances must be established using Corps Diplomatique BEFORE Alliance MOTC can be used) as if they were all members of a single Clan. To enable an Alliance MOTC, ALL the involved tribes must know this research topic and then sacrifice the requisite commodities (as explained below) and state which other Allied tribe(s) they will be joining with in a MOTC. An Alliance MOTC between tribes within two clans requires that each tribe sacrifice 10 units of a desired commodity and an additional 10 units of another, different non-desired commodity. An Alliance MOTC between tribes from three different clans requires that each tribe sacrifice 10 units of a desired commodity and an additional 10 units each of two, different non-desired commodities; e.g. each tribe sacrifices 30 commodities (10 of a desired commodity, 10 of one non-desired commodity and 10 of another different non-desired commodity). Between four clans requires 10 units of a desired commodity and an additional 10 units each of three, different non-desired commodities and so forth. This sacrifice simply enables an Alliance MOTC (and this fact should be shown in each clan's turn results). Once enabled, an Alliance MOTC may be held unused indefinitely and then used when needed by simply declaring a normal MOTC except that this MOTC may involve tribes from different clans. All involved tribes must be in a common hex when the Alliance MOTC is declared. A sacrifice allows one and only one Alliance MOTC to be declared. Further Alliance MOTC declarations each require their own sacrifices. Alliance MOTC Limitations – When an Alliance MOTC is declared, one of the participating tribes must be specified (by all participants) as the leader. At no time can the warriors from the other Alliance MOTC participants exceed the number of warriors in the leader's clan. This is enforced in a three-way MOTC, by limiting each of the other two (non-leader) participants' warriors to half the number of warriors in the leader's clan. In a four-way MOTC, this limit is reduced to a third and so forth. An Alliance MOTC operates as a normal MOTC. Battles skills are averaged (weighted averaging) across all warriors in the MOTC. The one exception is Generalship. If the Tribe leading the Alliance MOTC possesses the Gship skill, its benefits accrue to all as the General is in command of the entire MOTC. Finally, all tribes (except the Leader) involved in an Alliance MOTC lose all of their Skill Attempts while the MOTC is active. Once ended, an Alliance MOTC can be reactivated ONLY by further sacrifices of commodities as described above.

Description	Once a Tribe has completely researched Corps Diplomatique, it gains the ability to send Diplomats to other Clans, thus establishing diplomatic relations between the clans. The research is Tribe specific and Diplomats must originate from the Tribe (not Element) with the research. Diplomats are shown in your status – but they are also Inactive so transfer of Diplomat(s) means you must also transfer Inactive(s). Diplomatic Relations entail a variety of benefits, obligations and penalties as described below. Benefit: Diplomatic Relations are established by a Tribe, that possesses Corps Diplomatique, sending a diplomat to the main Tribe of another clan (not Element), and that tribe/village simultaneously accepting the diplomat. The Diplomat must be sent via an Element of the Tribe. Accepting the diplomat and thus Diplomatic relations, is ordered by the other Clan in the turn following the arrival of the Diplomat at that Clan. If both the send and accept orders are given in the same month, Diplomatic Relations are established between the two clans. Diplomatic Relations allows Trade Routes (see also Board of Trade as a requirement, see also Trade Routes/Depots) to be established between a village of one clan and a village of the other clan, as if both villages were part of one clan including Depots and Goods Tribe relationship. <ul style="list-style-type: none"> NOTE: Corps Diplomatique does not allow the creation of a Goods Tribe between Clans, only setting up a Trade Route. Declaring war on a clan with whom you have Diplomatic Relations is a two step process. On Turn X, the clan must withdraw/expel the ambassador. This causes all diplomatic benefits in trade to be lost. On Turn (X+1), war can be declared normally. In such cases, the tribe (only of the clan that declares war) that sent/accepted the diplomat suffers a General morale penalty of 0.05.

Formation and Governance

Anyone who completes the research may choose to become a Guild Master by starting a Guild (done by informing the GM by email). Guilds are always public: the formation of new ones will be published in TribeNews and currently active ones will be listed on public TN portals. Membership of any Guild is limited to 10 Clans in total, including the Guild Master. A Clan may be a member of only one Guild of each type (Traders Guild 20 and Traders Guild 25 are considered the same type, Bargemen's Guild is a different type). A Clan may only be a member of one Exclusive Guild, such as Exotic Weavers Guild.

Distillers' Guild is an Exclusive Guild.

Membership is by invitation from the Guild Master to anyone they choose, cc'd to the GM: a clear acceptance to the offer must be sent to the Guild Master, cc'd to the GM. Players may seek membership once the formal invitation is issued. The Guild Master is not obliged to accept any particular applicant for membership. It is incumbent on the Guild Master to maintain the list of the membership in their Guild. Players may leave a Guild at any time by notifying the Guild Master by email, cc'd to the GM. Benefits to the departing player lapse effective from the date of the resignation email. Players may be voted out of the Guild via 60% of membership in favour (the Guild Master counts as two members with two votes).

Any Guild may choose to write a Constitution, which must be agreed with the GM. Any such document is always public knowledge and must be made available on public TN portals. It is the Guild Master's responsibility to ensure that this happens.

Should a Guild Master lose the capacity to run a Guild, a deputy can be appointed by the GM from amongst remaining Guild members. This deputy may continue to run the Guild as previously run but must immediately undertake any skill development and research necessary to support it. If no-one is able to act as deputy the Guild is dissolved and all benefits are lost.

Operation and benefits

Members of a Distillers Guild are allocated one type of Alcohol. Only two Guild Members may be assigned to each of the Alcohol types. Entry into the Guild allows the construction of a Distillers' Guildhall (see recipe above). Once a Distillers' Guildhall is constructed, a Guild Member gains a bonus when selling alcohol of their appropriate type at Fair or through any other NPC avenue (such as Taverns, trade towns, etc). This bonus is equal to an extra 50% of base sale price for their appropriate Alcohol, Branded included. For instance, Ale normally sells for 272 Silver per barrel. If the Chief is selling Ale and is in the Ale slot in the Guild, then each barrel would instead sell for 408 Silver. If the Chief is selling Branded Ale, then normally it is $272 * 1.5$ but with Distillers' Guild it is now $272 * 2.0 = 544$ barrels may be sold.

Leads To	N/A
Description	Similar to the Traders Guild, the Bargemen's Guild allows members the transportation of goods from one Bargeyard to another Bargeyard along a pre-approved path. The effect of a Bargemen's Guild is to allow a limited degree of barge based transfers between Guild Members' units along nominated Guild Routes, which represent well travelled river routes amongst a stable trading community. Such transfers are facilitated by locals, i.e. no player element needs to be assigned or moved. Operation and benefits A Guild Route runs between two Bargeyards belonging to member Clans of the Guild (both Bargeyards may be owned by the same Guild member). A Guild Route consists of a continuous route of up to 120 Hex Sides that may be traveled by barges. Each Guild Route must be individually approved by the GM. Any member creating a new Guild Route must provide the GM with a graphical map showing the location of the units with Bargeyard and the proposed path in hexes. NB Guild Route details are between the individual members involved and the GM. The Guild Master and other members need not have knowledge of all Guild Routes. During Trade Fair months each Guild Member may conduct a single Guild Trade along an approved Guild Route. Such a Guild Trade is in addition to the normal fair; it does not count toward trade fair limits in any way. A Guild member may receive goods from as many members as are in their Guild, but may send goods only from a single Bargeyard. For each member of the Guild, the Guild Master receives 5 Gold annually (from locals), received on Turn 1 of each game year. For computational purposes the total membership in the Guild is determined at the time the preceding turn 12 TribeNews is published. The Guild Master must show this remittance as a Transfer. Initial limits <ol style="list-style-type: none">1. A Guild member may possess at most 2 Bargeyards at any one time.2. A Guild member may possess at most 2 approved Guild Routes at any one time.3. A Guild member may nominate a new Guild Route only once per game year. If already at the limit for Guild Routes, such a new proposal must nominate which route it is replacing.

4. A single Guild Trade may have at most 8 distinct items (plus barrels/containers for liquids). Only one of these may be a research item; otherwise items must be available on the public fair list or be an Exotic good such as Jade, Tea, Frankincense, etc. Books, Artefacts, Relics, Scrolls, people in any form (population, slaves, locals, hirelings, mercenaries, etc.) and boats or ships of any kind cannot be traded in this way.

5. The total quantity of goods transferred in a single Guild Trade is limited to the capacity of 20 Barges (it is up to the player to calculate this – if the GM discovers an error the player will be notified, a second error and the player is forever barred from any Guild membership). Barges capable of carrying the quantity of goods transferred must be held at the sending Bargeyards, but do not need to be moved.

6. Animals may be traded this way at normal ship capacity limits.

7. Bargeyards are buildings and must be built in a village.

2101	Admin Trade Route	0101e1	5	Route: 3, Silver 1500 & China 10 due Turn 5/812

How to Dissolve a Trade Route:

- 1) In Activities, make an activity called End Trade Route
 - a. Include the Trade Route Number
 - b. Include when it was terminated
- 2) Note: That Trade Route number is able to be used again two years after the date it was terminated.

Example:

Unit	Activity	Item	People	Notes

General Notes:

- 1) One end of a Trade Route must be the village that holds Board of Trade research.
- 2) Only 1 Board of Trade is allowed per Clan.
- 3) BoT Research is Tribe specific but any units belonging to the Clan (and only units from that Clan) may use the Trade Routes.
- 4) Units may not be absorbed or created via Trade Routes.

Sea Borne Trade Route Restrictions: Sea Borne Trade Routes created under Board of Trade (Requires both Board of Trade and Sea Borne Trade research topics to be held by the Clan) have an additional restriction that comes with the unlimited length of the trade route.

- 1) A Jetty must be available along the Trade Route every 40 hexes. This can be a standard Jetty named hex created per Mandate section 12.1.1 or any village member). A Guild Route consists of a continuous route that may be traveled by ships. Each Guild Route must be individually approved by the GM. Any member creating a new Guild Route must provide the GM with a graphical map showing the location of the units with Merchant Navy Shipyard and the proposed path in hexes. Routes may be up to 60 contiguous water or coastal hexes in length. These routes are particularly well travelled and have been thoroughly researched by sailors.

	with a Jetty. Countered By: Destroying the Village with Board of Trade eliminates Trade Routes that originate from that village. Note: A Fleet may only gain movement bonuses from three research topics simultaneously. Description	Similar to the Traders Guild, the Merchant Navy Guild allows members the transportation of goods from one Merchant Navy Shipyard to another Merchant Navy Shipyard along a pre-approved path. The effect of a Merchant Navy Guild is to allow a limited degree of fleet based transfers between Guild Members' units along nominated Guild Routes, which represent well travelled ocean routes amongst a stable trading community. Such transfers are facilitated by locals, i.e. no player element needs to be assigned or moved. Operation and benefits A Guild Route runs between two Merchant Navy Shipyards belonging to member Clans of the Guild (both Merchant Navy Shipyards may be owned by the same Guild

NB Guild Route details are between the individual members involved and the GM. The Guild Master and other members need not have knowledge of all Guild Routes.

During Trade Fair months each Guild Member may conduct a single Guild Trade along an approved Guild Route. Such a Guild Trade is in addition to the normal fair; it does not count toward trade fair limits in any way. A Guild member may receive goods from as many members as are in their Guild, but may send goods only from a single Merchant Navy Shipyard.

For each member of the Guild, the Guild Master receives 5 Gold annually (from locals), received on Turn 1 of each game year. For computational purposes the total membership in the Guild is determined at the time the preceding turn 12 TribeNews is published. The Guild Master must show this remittance as a Transfer.

Initial limits

8. A Guild member may possess at most 2 Merchant Navy Shipyards at any one time.

8. A Guild member may possess at most 2 approved Guild Routes at any one time.

8. A Jetty must be built every 20 hexes along the Guild Route.

8. A Guild member may nominate a new Guild Route only once per game year. If already at the limit for Guild Routes, such a new proposal must nominate which route it is replacing.

8. A single Guild Trade may have at most 8 distinct items (plus barrels/containers for liquids). One of these may be a research item and one may be a book, otherwise items must be available on the public fair list or be an Exotic good such as Jade, Tea, Frankincense, etc. Artefacts, Relics, Scrolls, people in any form (population, slaves, locals, hirelings, mercenaries, etc.) and boats or ships of any kind cannot be traded in this way.

6. The total quantity of goods transferred in a single Guild Trade is limited to the capacity of 5 Traders (it is up to the player to calculate this – if the GM discovers an error the player will be notified, a second error and the player is forever barred from any Guild membership). Ships capable of carrying the quantity of goods transferred

	must be held at the sending Merchant Navy Shipyards, but do not need to be moved. 7. Animals may be traded this way at normal ship capacity limits. 8. Merchant Navy Shipyards are buildings and must be built in a village. Standard Guild Rules (From Traders Guild): Formation and Governance Anyone who completes the research may choose to become a Guild Master by starting a Guild (done by informing the GM by email). Guilds are always public: the formation of new ones will be published in TribeNews and currently active ones will be listed on public TN portals. Membership of any Guild is limited to 10 Clans in total, including the Guild Master. A Clan may be a member of only one Guild of each type (Traders Guild 20 and Traders Guild 25 are considered the same type, Merchant Navy Guild is a different type). A Clan may only be a member of one Exclusive Guild, such as Exotic Weavers Guild, though Merchant Navy Guild is not an exclusive Guild. , Bargemen's Guild and Merchant Navy Guild. Membership is by invitation from the Guild Master to anyone they choose, cc'd to the GM: a clear acceptance to the offer must be sent to the Guild Master, cc'd to the GM. Players may seek membership once the formal invitation is issued. The Guild Master is not obliged to accept any particular application for membership. It is incumbent on the Guild Master to maintain the list of the membership in their Guild. Players may leave a Guild at any time by notifying the Guild Master by email, cc'd to the GM. Benefits to the departing player lapse effective from the date of the resignation email. Players may be voted out of the Guild via 60% of membership in favour (the Guild Master counts as two members with two votes). Any Guild may choose to write a Constitution, which must agreed with the GM. Any such document is always public knowledge and must be made available on public TN portals. It is the Guild Master's responsibility to ensure that this happens. Should a Guild Master lose the capacity to run a Guild, a deputy can be appointed by the GM from amongst remaining Guild members. This deputy may continue to run the Guild as previously run but must immediately undertake any skill development and research necessary to support it. If no-one is able to act as deputy the Guild is dissolved and all benefits are lost.

Description	Once a Tribe has researched Sea Borne Trade, it gains the ability to create a water borne trade route. This route must consist only of hexes and hexsides that are passable by a fleet, thus requiring both the starting and ending villages to be accessible by water. Benefit: Sea Borne Trade operates under all the rules and restriction of land-borne trade routes. Of course carrying capacity is determined by the vessels assigned to the trade fleet, rather than by land-based conveyances. Historically, Sea Borne Trade was more efficient than land-borne trade. Thus the movement of a trade fleet is 60 MV points. The maximum distance permitted for Sea Borne Trade is 360 MV points and must end at a village with a Jetty. Way stations along the route must be provided every 20 hexes. A Way Station is a hex with a Jetty (either village or jetty named hex as per Mandate 12.1.1). Ocean (or Lake) hexes cost 3 Movement Points for all trade route purposes. It needs to carry with enough provs to travel the distance. A maximum of 5 distinct items may be traded this way. Counters: Naval patrol in the hex of arrival. Note: GM requests that people with Sea Borne Trade Route review the Jetty requirements for SBT. Jetty requirement is modified by Board of Trade and other research topics.

Create a map showing the exact route and showing the exact MV cost for that route. Include the location of the Waystations or NPC Sites along the Trade Route.

- 5. Provide the information above to the GM. The GM will record the information and add the Waystations to the TribeNet map Database.
- 6. Note: Trade Routes may not be changed normally. However, Trade Routes provided by Board of Trade may be changed as per the Board of Trade research topic.

Requirements to Use a Trade Route:

- 1. The Unit must belong to the Clan with the Research or have Diplomatic Relations via Corps Diplomatique with the Clan with the Research.
 - a. You can not use a Trade Route belonging to another Clan if you are only Truced with that Clan.
- 2. A Unit must contain at least 20 Warriors to utilize the Trade Route. Each Warrior must have metal weapons and armour.
- 3. A Unit may move up to 40 MV per turn along a Trade Route. (This can be modified with other research)

How to Use a Trade Route:

- 1. Include a Comment in the Orders stating which Unit will be utilizing a Trade Route, which Trade Route it is utilizing (Start and End Points) and if it will be arriving at the end of a trade route or at a waystation.
- 2. Utilize the GOTO <HexCoordinate> Movement order (if using Automatic Orders) or state to which Hex the unit is moving. The destination for the move order must be an appropriate Waystation, NPC Site or one of the Player Village end points.
 - a. A Unit may move up to 40 MV along a Trade Route each turn and must end its movement at a Waystation, NPC Site or a Player Village at either end of the Trade Route. *See Partial MV Waystations under the Waystation section.
- 3. Movement along a Trade Route follows the pre-determined path from the creation of the Trade Route. A unit does not need to follow the path to the very ends and may enter or leave a Trade Route at either of the end points or at a Waystation or NPC Site.

Waystations:

- Waystations are movement end points along a Trade Route. When a Unit moves along a Trade Route, it will always end its turn at an NPC Site, a Waystation or at one of the two Player Villages at the ends of the Trade Route.
- Units on a Waystation are vulnerable (unless the Hex is otherwise combat free)
- Waystations are designated and constructed when the Trade Route is created and are added to the map as a named location. Because of this, other Clans may see the named Hex and know that Units utilizing a Trade Route may end their movement at this hex. When a Trade Route is created, the Workers needed to build the required Waystations must be kept unassigned (to simulate them working on the Waystations) and the Logs must be sent to Usage.

- Waystations may be Player Villages that belongs to the Clan that created the Trade Route.
- Waystations act as if they are Meeting Houses for purposes of controlling hexes. If other clans may not build structures or otherwise control the hex via Ford Blockade.
- Waystations are named, for example, “0123 Waystation”.
- ~~A single Hex may have Waystations belonging to multiple Clans. (A Hex could be named “0250 and 0900 Waystations” for example. If a single hex becomes overburdened with Waystations, it may be renamed and the information stored in the hex database differently).~~
- NPC Sites do not typically need to be designated with the Waystation name, as they already have the name of the Site. However, International Cities (such as Beijing, Tokyo, Trier) that are to be utilized as a Waystation, must have a Warehouse actually built in their hex.
 - A list of the Warehouses in an International City will be listed along with the special hex information. For instance, when arriving at Tokyo and requesting information about the special hex, the GM will provide the list of Clans with Warehouses in that International City as part of the Special Hex text.
- Defense: Waystations belong to a specific Clan and fortifications built at such a Waystation may only be utilized by that Clan. Unoccupied waystation buildings may be torn down normally. See “Keep” research for further defensive options.
- Construction:
 - 1 Waystation: People 50, Eng 2, Logs 100
 - People should be left unassigned and the Logs transferred to usage.
 - Warehouses in an International City must actually be built by Clans using them.
 - 1 Warehouse: People 2250, Eng 7, Stone 10k, Log 500, Parchment 200
 - After a Trade Route is created, new / replacement Waystations may be built by a Unit that is physically in the Hex location that will hold the Waystation.
- Partial MV Waystation: Sometimes 40 MV will not be perfectly aligned with entrance into a Hex (For instance, 13 PR is 39 MV while 14 PR is 42 MV). As a Unit moves 40 MV, the Waystation will need to be designated on either of these hexes. It is allowable to be either of these hexes (in the example either on the 13th or 14th PR). For example, a Unit utilizing the Trade Route (120 MV in total / 40 PR hexes) with the first Waystation on the 14th PR hex would move 42 MV the first turn to end on that 14th PR Waystation, then would move 39 MV the second turn (to end on the 27th PR) and then finally 39 MV the third turn (to end on the 40th PR end point). Use of these ‘rounding’ issues cannot shorten a trip from 3 turns down to 2 turns, etc.
- Destruction and Reconstruction:

- Waystations may be torn down through standard rules for destroying buildings through reverse engineering. To destroy a Waystation, any defenders in the hex must be defeated in Combat.
- Upon destruction of a Waystation, the owning Clan is notified that their Waystation on the trade route at that specific location has been destroyed. When a Waystation is destroyed, the Trade Route may still be used provided there are enough stopping points along the route that a Unit may stop at the end of each turn along the Trade Route while moving no further than 40 MV (*See Partial MV Waystation), but the Waystation may not be stopped at since it was destroyed.
- Waystations that have been destroyed may be recreated but it requires a Unit at the location, 50 effective workers and 100 Logs to be used. New Waystations may likewise be built following standard building and Waystation rules.

Depots:

- A Depot allows units from the Clan to form a Goods Tribe relationship from one end of the Trade Route to the other end of the Trade Route.
- Depots do not require additional research. If a Trade Route can be formed, the player may also utilize Depots on that Trade Route.
- Construction:
 - Depots may be constructed at either end of a Trade Route at a Player Village but not at a Waystation or NPC Site.
 - 1 Depot: People 2250, Eng 7, Stone 10k, Log 500, Parchment 200
- A Unit at the Player Village that holds the Depot may be set as a Goods Tribe by any Unit from the Clan at the other end of the Trade Route, even though they are not in the same / adjacent hexes.
- Arms and Armour must be held by each Unit using a Depot (that is, not held by the GT) – This may only be adjusted from the Depot once every six months and the player must clearly indicate when this happens via Comments in their Orders.
- Population may be transferred from one Unit to another via this Depot relationship but is limited to a total of 300 People per month and includes Slaves, Hirelings, Mercenaries in addition to the regular W/A/I population types.
- NOTE: Corps Diplomatie does not allow the creation of a Goods Tribe between Clans, only setting up a Trade Route.

Miscellaneous Information:

- Economic research may be possible to allow the hijacking of a Unit utilizing a Trade Route or other subversive Activities that might be dreamed up by players.

Example of Creation:

	I am creating a Trade Route from my village (Parkerville) at BC 0204 to my village (Williansburghough) at BD 0204. This is a total of 90 MV. Waystations are at BC 0904 (21 MV from Parkerville) and BC 2304 (42 MV from Waystation BC 0904 – see Partial MV Waystation, and 30 MV from Williansburghough). An NPC site (Silk Exporter) is located at BC 3004. Here is the map (Map inserted in email). Converting old Trade Route to New Trade Route: Over the next 6 turns, contact the GM to reform the Trade Route utilizing the new rules regarding Waystations. The Beginning and End villages should remain the same but the route may be changed to take into account the expanded use of the Trade Route rules.

Operation and benefits

A Guild Route runs between two Caravanserais (Eng 2, requires 200 logs installed at rate of 2/person) belonging to member Clans of the Guild (both Caravanserais may be owned by the same Guild member). A Guild Route consists of up to 20 contiguous land hexes (including the destination but not the start, so adjacent hexes represent a 1-hex Guild Route). Rivers, Hill and Low Mountain hexes may be freely crossed by a Guild Route. Lake, Ocean or High Mountain are impassable to a Guild Route. Each Guild Route must be individually approved by the GM. Any member creating a new Guild Route must provide the GM with a graphical map showing the location of the units with Caravanserais and the proposed path in hexes. *NB Guild Route details are between the individual members involved and the GM. Wagons capable of carrying the quantity of goods transferred must be held at the sending Caravanserai, but do not need to be moved. 6. Animals may be traded this way at a rate of 2 wagons = 2 elephants, 5 horses/cattle/dogs (untrained only), 20 goats (NB the equivalent wagons still need to exist in the sending Caravanserai). 7. Caravansarai are buildings and must be built in a village. Possible Future developments Depending on the popularity of this topic and GM workload, there may be considerable scope for additional research topics to improve member benefits, e.g. by increasing the number of Caravansarai belonging to a Guild Member, or quantity of goods (not number of items) transferred in a Guild Trade, or possibly even the number of Guild Routes a single member may possess, preferential rates at Trade Fairs or indeed just about anything else you can think of! Once multiple Guilds exist there may be scope to form one or more Associations of Guild Masters with the power to set rules affecting all Guilds whose Masters join the Association, and which may be able to offer additional benefits. The details of any of these ideas (or any others you may have!) are yet to be negotiated with the GM, however all agreed research topics relating to developing Traders Guild benefits will always be on the public Research List. Note: No books

Pre-Req	Drawbridge (Engineering research) Gatehouse (Engineering research)
Recipe	Barbican: Eng 10, Stone 4000, Logs 500, Iron 500, Silver 10000

Description	A Barbican commonly was made up of 4 Stone Towers with a seamless structure in-between the towers, which housed a garrison, the winch mechanisms for the drawbridge and portcullises, its own wells, etc. In effect a Keep that defended the gate. It takes 4 x damage to standard Stone Tower to destroy them. Adds + 4 to the effective Archery Skill for defenders in combat. (This incorporates the +2 from Drawbridge) Barbicans may be built for other Clans. Barbicans may be used by other Clans in their villages. Barbican solved the problem of defence by turning the Gatehouse into a Keep-like structure that had 2 sets of gates and portcullises (an steel-reinforced wooden latticed gate - the lattice "holes" were big enough to put a polearm through, but not a body part), a common tactic was to let the enemy in by the first, putting up a weak defence and letting them "break through" the outer gates. Then when their initial press of enemy infantry was in the entrance tunnel/passage, both portcullises would slam shut at the front and the back for the entrance tunnel trapping the enemy. Thus allowing the defenders to slaughter the enemy troops trapped in-between the front and back portcullises through the murder-holes in the roof of the passage-way and firing arrows in through the rear portcullis. The enemy army would also be powerless to stop the slaughter and (as was intended) would suffer a morale loss from having seen their best troops (who had led the charge) slaughtered in front of them. Proposed by Paul Malone

	Remove Ford (One Hex-Side): People 1000 w/ Tools, Wagons 10, Cattle/Horses: 20
Leads To	Superior Canal (Engineering research) Great Canal (Engineering research)
Description	Note: Cannot build a Canal adjacent to Mountains. A Canal is treated (and shown) as a River in all respects but must start from a body of water (River, Lake or Ocean). 40,000 AM's can turn a hexside (30,000-40,000 yards) into a Canal in flat terrain or swamp (a single Prairie hex next to the hexside is all that is needed to be regarded as flat), 50,000 in all other terrain. Where flat abuts other terrain the higher manpower cost applies. A shovel doubles output. Canals are 40' wide. Fords cannot be left in the newly created Canal as part of their construction. To convert a Ford into a Canal (that is, the Ford is removed) - 1000 Workers with tools (either Picks, Shovels, or Mattocks or combination), 10 Wagons, 20 Cattle/Horses can convert a Ford into a River/Canal. Destruction: Canals may be destroyed through standard reverse engineering practices. A unit in a Canal Hex may seek to destroy the canal in the hex through reverse engineering. As with any reverse engineering, the cost to remove a structure is one-half the cost to construct it and can utilize the same tools with the same benefits as building the road in the first place. Reverse engineering a canal requires Eng=3. When attempting reverse engineering of a canal, the chief must consult the Canal topic to determine the number AM's that were required to build the canal in the first place. The chief must then deploy AM's totaling one-half of this amount rounded up. The chief ordering the reverse engineering is responsible for performing these calculations and noting them as a comment to the GM. If there is an enemy unit in the hex destruction of a canal may require the defeat of this unit.

Description	An Island Fortress may only be constructed in a single Hex that is surrounded on all sides by water, including Ocean, Lake or River. Additionally, the Hex must contain a Home City and Castle. Additional defenses may be built per standard wall rules (higher walls, crenellations, towers, gate houses, etc) but these must be built separately from such defenses held by the City itself. In addition, to get the same effect, the defenses must be built six times (one per Hex Side). Upon completion, the Island Fortress is completed. A wall of the appropriate size loops around the entire island. Benefits: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Free Range Herding: A single Tribe or Unit in the Island Fortress has its Locals (Auxiliaries) set to 75% of the number needed to herd the current Herd held by that Unit or its Goods Tribe on Turn 1 of each year. This Unit may have no other Locals (Auxiliaries). Locals provide 75% of the herding requirements as payment for the protection the Island Fortress offers. 2. Clan gains 60 Gold and 20 'Lots' of a Desired Commodity immediately and once per year from then on out. (A Lot is the number listed in the Commodities section of the Mandate). 3. Seeking: Effective Seeking Skill is +5 for units seeking inside the Island Fortress 4. Blockade: Units that are untraced with the Clan may not enter the territory inside the Island Fortress without assault or sieging the island itself as if it were a fortified village. 5. Combat: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. The Island Fortress' first line of defense is on the beach forcing the attacking force to make an amphibious landing within range of the defending archers. +4 to Terrain Proficiency when defending the site. 2. Standard Fortification and Siege rules apply except that the City may perform all activities (such as farming, hunting, etc). 3. Siege Equipment: Only ship mounted Siege Equipment may be brought against the Island Fortress unless the siege engine is brought onto land within range of archers. Personnel assigned to man siege equipment in such situations suffer triple potential casualties. 4. Siege Resilience: Only research level Siege equipment may have an effect against the Island Fortress. Additionally, siege equipment has only half the effect against the Island Fortress walls. 5. Local Militia: Any combat conducted in defense of the Island Fortress gains 20% additional Militia. 6. Outer Wall: The Island Fortress' outer wall may be abandoned and defense setup in normal village/city walls. Note: Multi-hex islands would require Island Fortress Expanded I research at DL2 and would allow an Island Fortress up to 7 hexes. Island Fortress Expanded II research at DL 2 (requires Expanded I) would allow an Island Fortress up to 19 hexes.

	Expanded III would allow up to 37 hexes. Expanded IV would allow up to 61 hexes. Finally, the largest Island Fortress would be Expanded V and would allow up to 91 hexes. Anything further falls under Great Wall research topic. The Island Fortress may be built for other Clans but that Clan must have a Home City and a Castle in that hex.

Name	Keep
DL	7
Pre-Req	N/A
Recipe	* See Description
Leads To	N/A
Description	A basic keep requires 4000 stones per 1000 square yards capacity for a Keep1 (1 layer). A Keep may have additional layers of stones added to provide thicker, harder to penetrate walls. Each additional layer of stones uses the same quantity of stones as the original (8000 per 1000 square for a Keep2 etc). If a keep with a thicker wall is expanded, all layers must be increased. In keeps half normal village capacity restraints apply and each 1000lbs of non animal/person requires 5 square yards. You may not house Elephants, Cattle or Goats in a Keep. Capacity calcs relate to the Keep OR to normal fortified defence, not both. Your Keep will be shown as capacity. For example, 4000Keep1 means it is a single thickness Keep capable of storing 4000 sq yards capacity. * you may choose to enter the Keep at the start of any combat turn – but if you do you give up all external buildings – so no Refining etc. And you may not return to use external defences on subsequent continuos combat turns. The Keep is perhaps more useful for supporting smaller units in positions away from the main Tribe/population base. Remember that the Keep is still subject to siege. Benefits: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Waystations: A Keep may be built at a Waystation. Keeps at Waystations may be used by the Clan that setup the Waystation or by any friendly Clan at the Waystation. See Utilization. Only one Clan may occupy a single Keep in a turn. A Waystation may have more than one Keep. Keeps at Waystations may be torn down following normal rules. • Utilization: A Keep that is part of a Waystation may only be used by another Clan that is part of a Trade Guild, Merchant Navy Guild, Bargemens Guild or via Corps Diplomatique of which the builder of the Keep is a member. Keeps may be built for other Clans.

Name	Roads
DL	6
Pre-Req	N/A
Recipe	1 Road Segment (Hex Side, both directions): Various Skills: Trail Road (Eng 3), Dirt Road (Eng 6, Stn 2), Stone Road (Eng 9, Stn 4)
Leads To	N/A
Description	This research topic enables the Clan to build Roads between a Village and a set location (Village, City, Special Hex, Mine, immobile unit). There are three levels of Roads: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) Trails: Small worn paths that are well traveled. Workers compact the earth to create relatively dry marching paths. 2) Dirt Roads: Raised roads made of dirt, sand, salt and some gravel. 3) Stone Roads: Paved roads of stone tiles.

Return to Table of Contents

Requirements::

- 1) Reach: Roads may be built in the hex that the unit is in and any adjacent hexes.
- 2) Pass / Ford / River: Roads may not be built across a hex side that already has a River, a Ford or a Pass.
- 3) Resources: Resources must be available in the hex that the unit is located or in the hex that the road is being constructed.
- 4) Coordinates: The Player must know the coordinates of all the affected hexes (the hex the road is being constructed and the destination hex of the road). If the player does not know these coordinates, it is highly recommended that they do not take this research as it will create additional work on part of the GM.

Creating a Road:

- 1) The Player creates a Comment in their Orders that states the Hex the road originates in (either the hex the unit is in or an adjacent hex), the direction of the road and the hex coordinate of the end of the road.
- 2) It is the responsibility of the Player to track the expenditure of ActiveMonths (AM) when building road(s). These are unassigned workers and the progress of the road construction is maintained in the Comments section.
- 3) It is the responsibility of the Player to send all material to Usage by the conclusion of that road construction.
- 4) Once the necessary AM is expended and the resources are sent to Usage, a Comment in the Comment section is used to notify the GM. At this time, the player reiterates the hexes and direction of the roads built this time. This should include the return direction road.
- 5) The GM adds the roads to the origination hex and destination hex.

Road Construction Costs:

- 1) Each Turn, the unit may work on the Road by assigning workers, similar to Shipbuilding.
- 2) Each Hex the Road extends into has a cost. Costs are determined the most costly of the two hexes (Origination or Destination hex). For example, if building from PR to LJM or from LJM to PR, you would use the cost for the LJM.
- 3) All building is done from the originating Unit. More than one Hex of Road may be built a turn if it has enough AM and resources..
- 4) Road Progress is maintained by the Player through their Activities. When a Road segment (Hex to Hex) is completed, it is the responsibility of the Player to inform the GM of this extension to the Road by showing on the map which segment was just completed.
- 5) Upgrading Roads: Roads may be upgraded by paying the difference between the new Road type and the existing Road type in AM with the exception that Stone must be used equal to the new road type.
- 6) Destruction: Roads may be destroyed through standard engineering practices. A unit in a Road Hex may seek to destroy the road in the hex through reverse engineering. As with any reverse engineering, the cost to remove a structure is one-half the cost to construct it and can utilize the same tools with the same benefits as building the road in the first place. Reverse engineering a road requires Eng=3. When attempting reverse engineering of a road, the chief must consult the Road topic to determine the number AM's that were required to build the road in the first place. The chief must then deploy AM's totaling one-half of this amount rounded up. The chief ordering the reverse engineering is responsible for performing these calculations and noting them as a comment to the GM. If there is an enemy unit in the hex destruction of a road may require the defeat of this unit.

Benefit Per Hex:

- 1) Trail: Hex Move Cost Modifier of: $\frac{5}{6}$ (A $\frac{1}{6}$ th decrease)
- 2) Dirt Roads: Hex Move Cost Modifier of: $\frac{2}{3}$ (A $\frac{1}{3}$ rd decrease)
- 3) Stone Roads: Hex Move Cost Modifier of: $\frac{1}{3}$ (A $\frac{2}{3}$ rd decrease)

Example: Moving into a Prairie along a Road would normally cost 3 MV, but with a Dirt Road it only costs 2 MV. A Stone Road would allow that movement for only 1 MV.

Roads will lengthen the distance between end points of a Trade Route, and also enable Elements moving along a Trade Route to move further each turn (as 40 MV takes them further).

Cost per Hex Side:

Terrain	Trail	Dirt Road	Stone Road
Flat – No Trees	AM: 250 Coin: 3	AM: 600 Sand & Salt: 500 Stone: 500 Coin: 6	AM: 1.8k Sand & Salt: 1.5k Stone: 1.5k Coin: 18

(Does stack with Shovel) Wagon-Pulled(1 Wagon provides bonus to 5 people): +50% AM for each Worker Blasting Jars: Up to 20% of the AM may come from Workers with Blasting Jar usage. Example, Out of 3150 AM, 630 AM can come from Blasting Jar (63 workers + 63 Blasting Jars).

Example: To Build the Road in this image from the Village S to the Village E, Village S would need to spend the following resources for a Trail:

If it were to be made into a Stone Road, the cost to go from S to E would be 19MV (though the cost to build would be much higher).

Description	(Also under Woodwork) Description: Wood crane comprised of a modest size boom, a base plate, and a large diameter barrel shaped “wheel” on its side built around and attached to a centre axle (like a hamster wheel). One or more people walk inside the wheel providing mechanical power to drive the winch and thereby raising or lowering loads. Benefit: Increase worker productivity by 50% on Engineering projects and Shipbuilding so 2 workers do the work of 3. Each crane enables up to 20 workers to gain benefit. The Crane applies to raw workers that is, before other items such as Wheelbarrows. Player must show equivalent workers in their orders. Cranes are inventory item and transportable once constructed and thus may be used by Clans without the research. Weight: 300 Proposed by Brian Whitesell

Recipe	1 Burner Improvement: People 50, Eng 6, Stn 4, Mtl 4, Brk 4, Stones 150, Iron 50, Fodder 50, Clay 50
Leads To	N/A
Description	Burner Improvements are improvements made to existing burners. Burner Improvements double the effective workers assigned to the Charcoal Making activity (Section 12.6) only. Each Burner Improvement affects a single burner (10 people). They are themselves counted as buildings. You can never have more Burner Improvements than you have Burners. They may be built in other Villages and transferred but are not transportable. They must be built in place. The bonus from Burner Improvements follows the standard rules for TribeNet multiplication. With Charcoal Specialists (Special Research topic) giving a 50% increase and Burner Improvements giving a 100% improvement, the each worker would have an effective worker value of 2.5, not 3. Charcoal Specialists felt that their knowledge of the process was such that they needed to find new and better ways to make charcoal. After much experimenting, they discovered a series of improvements that would assist in controlling oxygen to the process and also maximize the amount of charcoal produced in each burner, thus lessening the amount of work each person allowing them to watch additional burns.

	Requirements: Units in the Tribe with Battlefield Medicine may assign Warriors and Actives to a battlefield support role as healers. 5 Healer (Warrior, Active or Hireling) must be assigned in the monthly Turn Orders for every 100 Warriors participating in combat that turn. Less Healers have a corresponding loss of efficiency in healing. Warriors assigned to battlefield support role as a healer do not count against the 1/3rd limit. Benefits: Once Battlefield Medicine is completed and healers assigned, Units in the Tribe that are involved in combat may attempt to heal Wounded warriors at the end of the Ranged combat phase. Wounded warriors that are healed are available to fight in the Melee phase though any wounded warriors that are not healed are beyond saving and are dead. Description	Allows any ONE Tribe of the Clan (this tribe must have INTELLIGENCE Skill = 10) to also ask ONE question per year about another player clan. The tribe with OIA need not be the same tribe as the tribe that asks the questions. Only questions with short simple answers are permitted. For example, what is the population of 0888? – Answer is “99,999”. All the stated limitations of Intelligence apply to this extra question. For example, for a site which is 20 hexes away the answer given should be within 2 hexes of the actual location. The question will be vetted by the GM. Rationale – Gathering Intelligence (e.g. the Intelligence Skill) is valuable in and of itself. However, this value can be greatly enhanced by an organized effort (e.g. the Research Skill) to analyze the various clues and hints that are gathered with the Intelligence Skill. Developing this research topic represents training the researchers (that do the analysis) to work with the intelligence gathers and to develop their abilities to “put the puzzle pieces together” to gain useful data about others clans. Restriction / Questions: Use of OIA requires specific questions versus overly broad questions. Questions about skills, items, research topics, resources, must be limited to a single Skill, item or resource. Questions about population must be limited to a single number. Questions about research topics must be specific to a skill. Examples of allowed questions: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) How much steel does Tribe 0123 have? Leadership

DL	4
Pre-Req	N/A
Recipe	N/A
Leads To:	Trusted Maps (Captaincy research) Trusted Maps (Economics research) Trusted Maps (Leadership research) Federal Community of Clans (Leadership research)
Description	Once completed, this research topic allows MOTC to be declared between Tribes within Allied Clans (Alliances must be established using Corps Diplomatique BEFORE Alliance MOTC can be used) as if they were all members of a single Clan. To enable an Alliance MOTC, ALL the involved tribes must know this research topic and then sacrifice the requisite commodities (as explained below) and state which other Allied tribe(s) they will be joining with in a MOTC. An Alliance MOTC between tribes within two clans requires that each tribe sacrifice 10 units of a desired commodity and an additional 10 units of another, different non-desired commodity. An Alliance MOTC between tribes from three different clans requires that each tribe sacrifice 10 units of a desired commodity and an additional 10 units each of two, different non-desired commodities; e.g. each tribe sacrifices 30 commodities (10 of a desired commodity, 10 of one non-desired commodity and 10 of another different non-desired commodity). Between four clans requires 10 units of a desired commodity and an additional 10 units each of three, different non-desired commodities and so forth. This sacrifice simply enables an Alliance MOTC (and this fact should be shown in each clan's turn results). Once enabled, an Alliance MOTC may be held unused indefinitely and then used when needed by simply declaring a normal MOTC except that this MOTC may involve tribes from different clans. All involved tribes must be in a common hex when the Alliance MOTC is declared. A sacrifice allows one and only one Alliance MOTC to be declared. Further Alliance MOTC declarations each require their own sacrifices. Alliance MOTC Limitations – When an Alliance MOTC is declared, one of the participating tribes must be specified (by all participants) as the leader. At no time can the warriors from the other Alliance MOTC participants exceed the number of warriors in the leader's clan. This is enforced in a three-way MOTC, by limiting each of the other two (non-leader) participants' warriors to half the number of warriors in the leader's clan. In a four-way MOTC, this limit is reduced to a third and so forth. An Alliance MOTC operates as a normal MOTC. Battles skills are averaged (weighted averaging) across all warriors in the MOTC. The one exception is Generalship. If the Tribe leading the Alliance MOTC possesses the Gship skill, its benefits accrue to all as

	the General is in command of the entire MOTC. Finally, all tribes (except the Leader) involved in an Alliance MOTC lose all of their Skill Attempts while the MOTC is active. Once ended, an Alliance MOTC can be reactivated ONLY by further sacrifices of commodities as described above.

The Federal Capital must be a village owned by the Clan. The Federal Capital may not be changed once designated without dissolving the existing FCC and researching FCC again. • Membership List: Once the Federal Capital is designated, the Clan with the research provides the Game Master with a list of all Clans that are to be part of the FCC. The Clan with the research becomes known as the Federal Leader.

- FCC Zone: A zone of effect is created around the Federal Capital and reaches out 25 hexes. It includes land and water hexes. This is called the FCC Zone.
- FCC Notification: The GM will publish an announcement of the creation of the FCC within the TribeNews that includes the hex coordinates of the Federal Capital within approximately 5 hexes of deviation. This provides the other players fair notice of the risks associated with combat inside the FCC Zone, though not its exact borders.

FCC Membership Restrictions:

- Maximum of 10 Members (which includes the Federal Leader)
- Members must have a Village within 25 hexes of the Federal Capital
- Members must not be members of any other Federal Community of Clans
 - A Clan may only be a member of a single FCC
- Members may be removed and added. Any changes must meet the normal Restrictions and should be communicated to the GM.

FCC Membership Benefits:

- Attacker Penalty: Any Unit that initiates aggression against a Unit or Structure (Local Support Settlement, NPC Special Hex construction, Village, etc) within the FCC Zone that belongs to a member of the FCC suffers a 20% penalty to Military Morale for the duration of Combat.
 - Attackers are notified upon conclusion of the first combat that the combat was held within an FCC Zone.
- Defensive Bonus: Any Unit or Structure within the FCC Zone that belongs to a member of the FCC gains a Terrain Proficiency Bonus of +4. (This represents knowledge of local defensive locations, permanent minor defensive structures and knowledge of how to harass the enemy on home terrain)
- These two benefits affect any and all combat within a turn provided it occurs in the FCC Zone and it affects a Unit / Structure that belongs to an FCC member.
- Federal Leader: The Tribe that holds this research receives 5 Gold per FCC member in turn 1 of every year, based on membership roles in month 12 of the preceding year. This is effectively a tithes from the Local population that benefits from permanent defensive presence. It is the responsibility of the Federal Leader to notify the GM when this is due and include it in the orders.

FCC Miscellaneous:

- It is the responsibility of the FCC member under attack to invoke these FCC penalties / bonuses by notifying the GM when he/she receives the request for combat orders. If the GM is not notified, these penalties/bonuses will not be in force.
- If the Village at the center of the FCC is abandoned or destroyed, the FCC is discontinued and the research topic is lost, but may be attempted again.

Description	A Unit with the Resilience research completed is capable of holding out against the enemy under even the worst outcome of combat. These Units are exceptionally hard to rout, but it comes with consequences: Benefits: During the beginning of a battle, a Unit may declare that it is utilizing Resilience by including it on their Combat Entry Sheet. This can be done either by an attacking or defending unit. During all Combat this turn, the Unit gains the following: 1) Temporary Military Morale Increase of 0.02 for purposes of combat this turn. 2) When determining if a Unit routes, the random die roll is made once normally. If it indicated a Rout, the dice are rerolled and checked against for each level of Resilience. If one of the die rolls comes up as a Does not Rout, the unit will not rout. The unit will only rout if all the results show a Rout. b. Example: A Unit has a 55% chance of not routing. It has Resilience I. A random number is generated between 1 and 100. The results are 89. Typically, the 89 would indicate a rout (It is greater than 55), however, the Unit declared Resilience I at the start of Combat. It rerolls the random number and gets a 47. Because the 47 is below the point of Routing, the unit will not Rout this combat.

A second class can raise their skills to 4, a third to 6 and so forth, until skill = 10 is reached. Thereafter, the gain is limited to only +1 per three months of training. It is incumbent on players to keep track of the skill level of each class of mercenaries. If two different classes participate in the same combat, skills are averaged in the usual way. The skills that are trained are Combat, Leadership, Horsemanship, Archery, Heavy Weapons, Captaincy and Mariner. In situations where mercenaries are involved that require other skills (such as Scouting or Tactics, the mercenaries' skills are NOT considered, and the skills possessed by the unit containing the mercenaries is used in all such cases. Only one class of mercenaries can be trained at a time and as stated above, the maximum size of the class is 300 – exception, a Sensai Dan is allowed to simultaneously train two classes, each of 300. A class must consist of only one type of mercenary, for example a class may NOT contain both Ottoman and Japanese mercenaries. The gain in skills as described above is the only benefit. All other rules pertaining to the use of mercenaries still apply – see the Mandate section 3.11. The Sensai must be paid for each class trained. Payment is 10 loads of any commodity – not necessarily the desired commodity for the clan. A load is the amount of a commodity needed to buy Hirelings or Slaves as shown in the table under 14.1.2 Commodities in the Mandate. For example, a Sensai would accept 20 Jade, 100 Ivory or 500 Tea to train a single class for three months.

Description	Geology may be attempted at Mining 11. The effect of gaining an Geology topic is to add levels to your Mining Skill. Geology 1 adds one level (for example, Mining11 to Mining12), Geology 2 adds 3 levels (for example, Mining12 to Mining15), Geology 3 adds 5 levels (for example, Mining15 to Mining20). Once Geology 1 Research Topic has been achieved, the Tribe may learn a new skill, Geology (Group C). Once Geology skill reaches 10, further Geology research topics (4, 5, 6...) may be researched. Each Geology research topic (4, 5, 6...) adds 5 Levels to Mining skill. Books may be written.

Description	A Fleet with Heart of Oak gains a 1% advantage (Damage done to its opponent is increased) per point of difference when the sum of its Nautical Skills (Nav/Sail/Sea) exceeds the sum of the Nautical Skills of an opposing fleet. For example, a fleet with Nav/Sail/Sea of 10/11/12 versus a fleet with 6/6/6 increases the damage it does to the 6/6/6 fleet by 15% (10+11+12 = 33 vs 6+6+6 = 18). Nautical Skills (Nav/Seail/Sea) now affect Naval Combat, not just Naval Movement. Description	A Castle is essentially a fortified or strengthened building (acts as a 30' Stone Wall for the purposes of Siege and Assault) and capable of housing up to 6000 people and all Goods held by the Clan occupying the site (apart from Animals). If you have more than 6000 people in the site you can opt to house them behind lesser fortifications but doing so will mean likely lowering your Defensive Factor. Stables (via research) may be incorporated into the Castle to house Horses and Dogs. The effect of a Castle is to double/increase any advantages that Statehood/Nationhood confer. The Castle is impervious to Catapults and Trebuchets (Siege Cannon will do damage as per vs 30' Wall). Researched Siege Equipment does normal damage. At the end of any turn the Defender may opt to use the Castle rather than the external walls as their fortified defense (effectively sacrificing x-6000 people to the attacker). In this sense the first Castle maybe symbolic but it is a prerequisite for many useful research options). Since the attacker is deemed to be inside the outer walls no Village type Activities like Milling, Refining etc may be done (Baking is an exception), nor are external

If your “mother” population suffers losses due to combat such that the population falls below 500,000 all applicable growth modifiers are restored until the 500,000 is reached again. This will only be applicable if attack is initiated against you (and not if you initiate an attack). Description	300 Local Feudal Horsemen act as remote Security forces. They are considered to occupy each politically controlled hex (extra research can increase this number). They are housed in a stone fort (500 yard 10’ wall and moat with barred gate, and Barracks) which must be built by the owning player. The Feudal Security is considered to have permanent Security orders. They will attempt to stop any hostile forces “raiding” the Kingdom by encountering raiders in any hex “raided through”. The effect is to diminish raiding forces by 300 enemy raiders per hex raided through. For example, if a Raiding party of 2000 passes through 2 controlled hexes on its way to Raiding the central State hex then the effective Raiding numbers are reduced to 1400. A hostile force occupying a controlled hex will have its numbers reduce by twice this (and includes the hex occupied). For example, a raiding party originating from a hex adjacent to the central hex will have its effective Raiders diminished by 600. Note, the Feudal Security is effective against any and all Clan Raiding regardless of the numbers of Clans involved (counter research aside).

	The locals will provide the provs for the Feudal Security. Note Feudal Security are independent of Militia and do not come to the defence of the State nor do they act as Suppressors. They are useful against Raids only. Upon completion players need to remind me to name the surrounding hexes 0250FS1 etc, these names will override names previously assigned to the hex. Upon completion of the Research, the Scroll is destroyed/lost and is sent to Usage (1263) via transfer.

Pre-Req	Government Level 3 (Politics research) Castle (Politics research) Engineering 10 (Skill) Stonework 10 (Skill)
Recipe	1 Gatehouse, 3 Watchtowers per hex side and 1 Relic to consecrate each hexside. 100,000 stones plus 3 Watchtowers per hex side for a 10' wall. 150,000 stones for 15' wall – that is, 250,000 stones total per hex side for 15' wall. Etc for higher walls. No differentiation for terrain. Not possible/required in hex sides bordered by impassable mountains.
Leads To	N/A
Description	The Player must specify, before beginning the Great Wall, the wall's start- and end-points which form a "closed loop". Must be a minimum of 6 hexes distant from the main builders Pol10 centre at all points (if more than one Clan is participating in construction the main builder must be specified). For practical purposes the Great Wall will not considered to be operative until the loop is completed/closed (once completed it may be expanded but new portions will not count til the next loop is completed etc) – a loop may include river, oceans, lakes and impassable terrain. Indeed, a completely new loop may be started beyond the existing loop. The GW effectively takes up a whole hex which once built becomes impassable terrain. Should the hexes externally adjacent already be named, or contain Locals

	etc these will need to be either renamed, destroyed or relocated. A relocation requires a 100 Gold tribute. Such hexes will be dealt with on a case by case basis. A GW can be built on the same hex side (that is, alongside) a river but if built “across” a river then river Travel “through” the wall is possible. A unit may build on one hex side only in the turn. Benefits Completion of the GW allows free range Herding – all Herders operating from a Home City within the loop are reduced to 10% of normal requirements as long as each of the herders are mounted (it is up to the player to note this – including other Clans affected which must also show this on their Orders). The HC Clan gains 10 gold and 200 Silk per hex side of Great Wall per year as tribute. Where two or more Clans combine to enclose an area the Gold tribute is divided equally among those Clans.. * a state of Alliance, Statehood or Nationhood must prevail. Effective Seeking Skill is increased +5 for units seeking inside their GW. Any combat conducted by the owner of the GW inside its loop gains 20% of assigned troops as additional locals. For example, 500 troops assigned to combat will be bolstered by an additional 100 (loses are in ratio) for the duration of the combat. Research may be proposed that demolishes a section of the wall (effectively a hex side) which will allow passage through this hex side – but the research will need to be commensurate with the research required to build the GW.

Description	Upon successful completion of Import Mission, the Clan's Home City gains an Import Mission similar to International Cities. <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1) The Home City becomes the Importing City. 2) The Home City must also be a Board of Trade Site (Home City hex must contain Tribe that has active Board of Trade) 3) A City, International or PC, is selected as the Exporting City. This City gains a Trade Mission text similar to that which exists for other International Cities. The mission may be accepted and transfers occur as with any normal International City trade mission. If the City is PC controlled, they may reject it and the researching clan must pick another city. 4) A Primary and Secondary Commodity are selected by the researching Clan. The amount of each is Base Commodity Quantity (from Mandate) * 4 * Hex distance from the Export City to the Import City, with a minimum of 10 Hexes. Distance is calculated based upon number of hexes from the Exporting City to the Importing City in a direct line regardless of terrain. Example: 85 hexes for Gold (Qty 1) would be $85 * 4 * 1 = 340$ Gold to Transport. 109 hexes would be $109 * 4 * 1 = 436$ Gold. 5) The payout for a successful Trade Mission (from Export to Import Mission) is 20% of the Commodity quantity for both Primary and Secondary commodities, Rounded Up. Example: If transporting 340 Gold, the payout to the unit delivering the goods would be $340 * 0.2 = 68$ Gold. 6) Additionally, the Importing Clan (the one with the research) gains 10% of the Commodity quantity for both Primary and Secondary commodities, Rounded Up. 7) A maximum of 5 Clans may be on the Import Mission at a time. A single Clan may run a single specific mission multiple times but must wait one turn between turn in and accepting the next mission. 8) The clan with the Research may not run their own mission, only other clans. 9) Failure to deliver the goods in a timely manner will result in a forfeiture of the mission. The Tribe with GL 1 and the Import Mission research loses 0.10 Morale while the Tribe that accepted the mission and forfeited will lose 0.15 Morale. A Clan that forfeits a mission may not accept future Trade Missions from this specific research. The time for the mission to be considered Forfeit is

	4 months per 10 hexes (rounded up) of the Trade Mission distance. This forfeiture frees up the mission for future Clans. This research may be taken multiple times, up to three, with different commodities for each Import Mission and different Export Cities. Beijung, Whulan, Tokyo, Osake, Lugdunum, Trier; These are all well known international cities with major trade routes. Description	Treaties formally define control of disputed Political territories (that is, the point at which two or more States become overlapping States). Each new treaty must be researched separately. Either party can develop treaties and must be announced by each party to the treaty in the same turn (like Truces). The terms must be 255erquisit within 2 turns of development. The treaty will become operational following the turn in which both parties accept the terms of the treaty (expending 6 parchment each). If any party formally rejects the treaty at any stage after the terms are 255erquisit, it is destroyed. A Treaty need not address all hexes in dispute, but if it does, this aim needs to be specified at the time of researching, and the hexes specified. The terms of a treaty may not be extended to encompass territories either not in dispute or omitted at the time the research was successful. Breaking Treaties: Terms may be renounced in several ways. One party can research a new Treaty and, if agreed between the parties, this can replace the old one. One party could leave the area (or the game) abandoning their State. Requirements:

- Specific College: Each Specific College requires its own building to be built to function.
- Annual Upkeep: Every year, Annually on month 1, each college requires a unit at the College to consume the following:
 - Silver: 100k
 - Scroll: 1
 - Parchment: 200
 - Candles: 50
 - Tobacco: 200
- Failure to Pay: If the Annual Upkeep is not consumed, the College will lie fallow for the year. It may be restarted the next year with the Annual Upkeep being paid.

Restrictions:

- Colleges may be built for other Clans.
- Other Clans may not utilize Colleges without the Research being completed in their Clan.

Notes:

- The College research topic needs to be completed only once to build all 7 colleges.

Name	Research Team
DL	6
Pre-Req	University (Building) Library (Building) – In same space as University Scroll (Item)
Recipe	N/A
Description	Once a Tribe has completed Research Team, it gains the ability to initiate a subsequent research project once its prerequisite topic has reached DL1. For example, the research topic “Steel” has “Coke” as its prerequisite. Normally Coke must be completely researched before any attempt to research Steel can be started. Research Team allows Steel to be attempted once Coke has reached DL1. One topic at a time may be dealt with in this way. Rationale: Research is often done in teams. A “scientist” team focuses upon making new discoveries. An “engineer” team focuses on turning the new scientific discoveries into something that can be used. Once a discovery is made, the “scientists” go on to attempt a new set of discoveries while the “engineers” turn the existing discovery into something practical. In game turns, once DL1 is reached, the scientists go on to the next research topic while the engineers complete the research topic. For example, a Tribe that knows Research Team that also has two (or more) partial topics (For example, Steel DL7/8 and Home Guard DL1/3) could start only ONE new topic early, (e.g. Steel allows Superior Weapons to be started early OR Home Guard allows Army to be started early).

Description	Upon completion of Scholar, a new Tribe is formed. This Tribe represents the new Scholar and consists of 1 Active and Research 10 (the Parent Tribe keeps its Res 10 as well). This Tribe may do no activity except Meditation. The Scholar Tribe can move only by using the Follow order (ie it must always be attached to another unit). It may not accept Transfers of Population (without additional research). The Scholar Tribe attempts skills in the same way as any other Tribe. It may, at the end of a turn, transfer any of its skills to another Tribe of the same Clan – not an Element – provided the receiving Tribe has a unit in the same hex as the Scholar. Description	Fast Fleets allows any Fleet (that knows this topic) whose normal sailing MP = 100 MPs or more per turn to move along a TR (Trade Route) at twice the normal TR speed; e.g. at 160 MPs per turn instead of 80. Fleets with high scores in SAIL, SEA and NAV can sail more than 100 MPs per turn. For example, a fleet with Longships (base sailing rate = 40 MP) and skills of 10 in each of SAIL, SEA and NAV, will sail 130 MPs per turn. This means that in many cases it will be faster for such Fast Fleets to sail normally, rather than using a TR. Fast Fleets increases fleet movement along TR (Trade Routes) only, as described below. It does not affect any other sort of movement. Note: A Fleet may only gain movement bonuses from three research topics simultaneously along a Sea Borne Trade Route. Description	A Fleet with Heart of Oak gains a 1% advantage (Damage done to its opponent is increased) per point of difference when the sum of its Nautical Skills (Nav/Sail/Sea) exceeds the sum of the Nautical Skills of an opposing fleet. For example, a fleet with Nav/Sail/Sea of 10/11/12 versus a fleet with 6/6/6 increases the damage it does to the 6/6/6 fleet by 15% ($10+11+12 = 33$ vs $6+6+6 = 18$). Nautical Skills (Nav/Seail/Sea) now affect Naval Combat, not just Naval Movement. The Royal Navy proved on many occasions, superior Nautical Skills provided decisive advantages in fleet vs fleet combat.

Name	Shipbreaking
DL	2
Pre-Req	N/A
Recipe	N/A
Leads To	N/A
Description	Shipbreaking allows for the conversion of ships into raw materials. This provides a means for a tribe to covert unused or unnecessary ships into raw materials for use in other projects. One example use of this would be for a fleet unit to reach a destination, convert to a standard unit, and then process the ship(s) into raw materials. This does not apply to oars and paddles. Some of the raw materials will be lost as scrap in the shipbreaking process. Any ship that is converted to raw materials will receive 50% of the materials used to build the ship as raw materials, rounded down to the nearest whole number. Sheath will convert back to the raw materials used to create the Sheath. You will need to review prior turns to determine the raw materials used for this. Please consult Section 16: Ship Construction of the Mandate to review the raw materials per vessel type. Raw materials received from shipbreaking must be listed as transfers from 2263 in Transfer Orders to your unit on the turn you are breaking the ship, and you must include a message to the GM as to which ships in which units are being broken on that turn.

Spying

Name	Avoid Security
DL	5
Pre-Req	Scouting 10 (Skill) Spying 10 (Skill)
Recipe	N/A
Leads To	N/A
Description	Once this research is completed, scouts sent out by this Tribe (or its Elements/Fleets) gain an advantage in avoiding detection by any/all security/suppression orders given by other Clans. The Scouting & Security skill of the other clans is REDUCED by half (rounded up) of the Spy skill of the scouts' Tribe. For example, Tribe 9933 (with Sct=10 and Spy=10) knows Avoid Security and sends out scouts that enter a hex being suppressed by security forces from Tribe 8222. Tribe 8222 has Sct8 and Sec9. However, Avoid Security means that 8222's SCT=8 is reduced to 4 and its SEC=9 is reduced to 5, when 8222's Suppressors attempts to detect 9933's scouts. Rationale A Tribe that has mastered both SCT and SPY skills should be able to use its spying capabilities to enhance its scouting. Spies know how to act like local yokels, wandering minstrels, or other "innocents". This research is the training of the Tribe's warrior scouts with the spy's ability to act like an "innocent". Proposed by Steve Simmons

This research has no other effect beyond this ONE OFF boost of a tribe's Sec and Spy skills. For example, Tribe 5583 (with Sec=10 and Spy=10) completes Cross Training. Its

	Sec skill is set to 13 and its Spy skill is also set to 13. Rationale – Spies that have also mastered SECURITY are better spies as they fully understand security and thus how to avoid the security forces of other tribes. Description	Identify Militia allows you to roughly determine the number of Militia available to a particular Home City. This is achieved by means of a Scouting party entering the HC hex with orders to “Identify Militia”. The Scouting party gathers no other information and is not subject to any Suppression operating in the hex.
Summary	You can figure out how large the Home City's militia is without a spying action.

Description	In addition to the data normally gathered by spying (numbers of warriors assigned to defense, security, suppression) two additional pieces of data may be gathered (to within 10% accuracy where this is relevant). The player must specify each of these three additional pieces when the spying is ordered and he/she will receive this additional if and only if the spying mission succeeds (e.g. is not spotted by any suppression or security forces). These two additional pieces of data can be anything that can be easily answered by the GM. For example: What fortifications does Unit 1789 possess? What is the population of Unit 1789? What is the Eng Skill of Unit 1789? And the answers could be: Ditch 1,500; Wooden Palisade 1,500; Wooden Towers 4 2,173 8 Please note that additional data gathered through Spy Data I applies to one and only one target and this target UNIT (not entire Clan nor an entire Tribe) is the only UNIT for which the additional data is report. Specifying a Target = 1789, means the additional data is provided for UNIT 1789, but Unit 1789e1 (even if in the same hex), would NOT be reported on. My intent is not to force you to add up the population of every unit with an entire tribe or clan, but rather to focus solely upon ONE, SINGLE UNIT.

Leads To	Large Teams (Triball research)
Description	Description: The effect of a Triball Guild, also known as a Minor League, is to allow Triball to generate to Gold instead of Silver and is structured identical to a Guild. Formation and Governance: Anyone who completes the research may choose to become a Guild Master by starting a Guild (done by informing the GM by email). Guilds are always public: the formation of new ones will be published in TribeNews and currently active ones will be listed on public TN portals. Membership of any Guild is limited to 10 Clans in total, including the Guild Master. A Clan may be a member of only one Guild of each Type (Traders Guild 20, Bargemens Guild, etc). A Clan may only be a member of one Exclusive Guild, such as Exotic Weavers Guild, though Triball Guild is not an exclusive Guild. Membership is by invitation from the Guild Master to anyone they choose, cc'd to the GM: a clear acceptance to the offer must be sent to the Guild Master, cc'd to the GM. Players may seek membership once the formal invitation is issued. The Guild Master is not obliged to accept any particular applicant for membership. It is incumbent on the Guild Master to maintain the list of the membership in their Guild. Players may leave a Guild at any time by notifying the Guild Master by email, cc'd to the GM. Benefits to the departing player lapse effective from the date of the resignation email. Players may be voted out of the Guild via 60% of membership in favour (the Guild Master counts as two members with two votes). Any Guild may choose to write a Constitution, which must be agreed with the GM. Any such document is always public knowledge and must be made available on public TN portals. It is the Guild Master's responsibility to ensure that this happens. Should a Guild Master lose the capacity to run a Guild, a deputy can be appointed by the GM from amongst remaining Guild members. This is independent of the normal Triball Activity. To participate in this activity, the Tribe must have access to a Minor League Arena. This Minor League fair activity may be performed during every Fair. A Clan may assign a maximum of 800 Warriors, 800 Horses and 800 Clubs to this special Triball Minor League. Use the standard Fair calculator for Silver generation for Triball activities. The amount of Gold that is generated by participating in this Triball Guild during Fair is the amount of Silver divided by 250, rounded down. For Example: At Triball 10, with 800 Warriors, 800 Horses and 800 Clubs, the calculator shows it would normally generate 19,000 silver. Instead it generates $19,000 / 250 = 76$ Gold. Guild Master: For each member of the Guild, the Guild Master receives 5 Gold annually (from locals), received on turn 1 of each game year. For computational purposes, the total membership in the Guild is determined at the time the proceeding turn 12 TribeNews is published.
Summary	New Guild - Triball, use Warriors to gain Gold during fair

Name	Triball Specialists
DL	4
Pre-Req	N/A
Recipe	N/A
Leads To	N/A
Description	A Triball specialist is a warrior that has trained extensively to play triball. During fair months they cannot do anything else. They must play triball. During the other months they may guard or do warrior only acts or they may herd triball ponies. They are counted as 2 warriors for purposes of figuring silver gained at the fair. You can have a maximum of 800 Triball specialists participate in the fair.
Summary	Allows training of Triball Specialists, double the output of silver/gold.

Waxworks

Name	Fake Royal Seal
DL	6
Pre-Req	N/A
Recipe	1 Fake Royal Seal: People 10, Waxwork 10, Gold 10, Silver 1000, Wax 5, Parchment 5
Leads To	N/A
Description	A unit attacking or defending with a Fake Royal Seal may attempt to divert 10% of the combatants (of all types) in the first enemy force it fights. If this enemy force is a MOTC, 10% of the MOTC's combatants may be diverted. The diverted combatants are not lost. They remain part of the enemy force – they simply do not fight in this one battle. For example, if the enemy force contains Combatants=1,000, 330 of these can fight (33% rule). The Fake Royal Seal diverts 10% of these 330, leaving only Combatants=297 to fight in the actual battle. The number of combatants diverted rounds up. This diversion attempt is successful if and only if a successful spying attempt is made against the enemy force. When the enemy force is a MOTC the spying attempt is made vs. the unit leading the enemy MOTC. When the attacker is trying to use a Fake Royal Seal, it is the attacker's responsibility to order the spying mission simultaneously with his(her) attack. A defender will be given a chance (when they submit combat orders) to perform the required spying mission. Peter will adjudicate this defensive spying mission immediately prior to the combat. If successful, the attacker's force will be reduced by 10%. These spying missions are adjudicated using the same rules and skills as any other spying mission. There's nothing different about them other than the effect – a diversion of 10% of the combatants when and if the spying mission succeeds. Please note that the target of a Fake Royal Seal does not know about the diversion (successful or not) when he(she) submits combat orders. If successful, the victim is told that 10% of his(her) forces were diverted by a Fake Royal Seal and thus were not present during the battle. If unsuccessful, the target captures the spies who were attempting to use the Fake Royal Seal. The seal itself is lost, but the target is told that a Fake Royal Seal diversion was attempted. Note that a unit may fight two separate battles in a single turn (Mandate 10.3). In such cases, a Fake Royal Seal affects only one enemy force fought. The clan employing the Fake Royal Seal may specify which enemy force is targeted, first or second. Even if a clan possesses more than one Fake Royal Seal, only one seal may be employed during a single turn. Also note that a force may never under any circumstances have more than 10% of its combatants diverted from a battle. Proper use of Fake Royal Seal is completely in the hands of the player using it. If

	attacking, a simultaneous SPYing attempt against the target of the attack MUST BE ordered by the attacking player and this SPYing attempt must explicitly state that it is using a Fake Royal Seal. If Defending, the defending player orders the SPYing attempt at the same time as he/she submits his/her combat orders. Again, this SPYing attempt must explicitly state that it is using a Fake Royal Seal. The onus is on the player to employ a Fake Royal Seal in the exact manner described above. Failure to do so means no diversion will occur. Weight: 0.05 lbs

Weaving

Name	Basket
DL	3
Pre-Req	N/A
Recipe	1 Basket: People 1, Wv4, Bark 5, Gut 5
Leads To	N/A
Description	A basket can double the productivity of farmers harvesting any/all crops. That is, increases the number of effective workers by 100%. May be combined with any other harvesting implement allowed for the type of crop being harvested (e.g. scythe, machete but not Harvest Bag); however the effect is linear, not cumulative (e.g. a farmer with both a scythe and a Basket will harvest 9 acres of grain, not 12). Thus a farmer with Scythe and Basket is shown as 3 equivalent Farmers. A Tobacco Farmer with Basket and Machete would be shown as 5 equivalent workers (not 8). It is incumbent on the player to show equivalent workers in Orders.
Summary	New Item - Basket, doubles productivity of farmers when harvesting.

Name	Cheesecloth

Description	Exotic Weaving is a Village Activity (only one Tribe per Clan). Exotic Weavers may create Carpets, Rugs and Tapestries, incorporating techniques and legends unique to the region, for example, Cyberian Carpet. Each Clan can select one unique item. When sold at Fair, the items are nothing special and sell for the same price as normal Rugs, Carpets, and Tapestries (with the same limits as per a Fair). Fair Trade Multipliers do not apply. However, if sold at an Exotic Trading Post (found at some trading Towns and NPC International cities – there will usually be 3 or 4 of these and the player needs to ask the GM for their location), these Rugs, Carpets, and Tapestries bring twice the normal price (in Silver) or may be sold for Diamonds. If sold for Diamonds, the twice normal price in Silver is divided by 300, rounding down, to get the amount of Diamonds. If using Silk instead of Cotton these prices are tripled. There are Exotic Trading Posts that buy Exotic Woven items on other Continents. <table><tr><th>ITEM</th><th>SKILL</th><th>PEOPLE</th><th>COTTON/ SILK</th><th>SILVER</th></tr><tr><td>Carpet</td><td>6</td><td>12</td><td>50</td><td>10/20</td></tr><tr><td>Rug</td><td>4</td><td>6</td><td>20</td><td>20/40</td></tr><tr><td>Tapestry</td><td>8</td><td>25</td><td>100</td><td>25/50</td></tr></table> Once three Tribes have completed Exotic Weaving they will be considered to be members of the Exotic Weavers Guild (an exclusive Guild). Notes

Topics with multiple DL's (and others that relate DL level to the recipient) cannot be changed once commenced. For example, if you have commenced a Topic and picked the 'Affects Tribe Version' and are DL3 of 7 for the Tribe, you cannot then decide to change this to DL3 of 9 Clan wide version of that topic. Clan wide must be commenced as a separate project. However, Tribe wide is not a prerequisite for Clan wide so you can begin your research by going straight for Clan wide or Religion wide.

Scrolls/Relics

These will be required for some topics. A Scroll is more likely to be required for items that use materials, a Relic for items that do not. Scrolls and Relics are found around the hexes, but they are rare.
